The remains now rest in an immense fire proof vault where they will be preserved for future generations to admire and reverence. Owing to the fact the University is not in session much of the customary ceremony on such an occasion was done away with but elaborate exercises will be held in the fall when the University opens.

INVESTORS LOOK TO SOUTH JANESVILLE

A Number Will Erect Houses To Rent and to Sell on Installment Plan.

Several real estate investors in the city are considering the proposition of erecting houses in South Janesville, near the new Chicago & North-Western yards. The dwellings will be either to rent or to sell on the installment plan. Prospective residents of the new suburb have also asked real estate men to build homes for them. There was rumor about town to the effect that some concern was planning to construct houses in a wholesale manner but an investigation has proven the report to be unfounded. There is no doubt however that real estate in the vicinity of the yards will soon be booming.

COMPLAINT IS MADE AGAINST SCAVENGER

Elliott Collier is Charged With Violating City Ordinance Regarding Tank Wagon.

In municipal court this morning a warrant was sworn out for the arrest of Elliott ("Cap") Collier, alleging violation of the city ordinance which requires scavengers engaged in certain kinds of work to use a tank wagon. The charge is preferred at the instance of E. Reynolds, also a scavenger who swears that he followed Collier between midnight and one o'clock in the morning recently and found him using open barrels on a wagon where the law requires a closed metal tank. Herman Topp also alleges that Collier dumped the contents on the river banks near Taylor's Coal Yard, and within a few rods of his home, regardless of his remonstrances. The case will probably be heard in court on Monday.

AUSTRALIA VERSUS AMERICA AT TENNIS

Winners Will Meet Great Britain in Play For Davis Trophy Cup.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] London, July 12.—The large crowd that gathered at Wimbledon today to witness the beginning of the preliminary competition for the Davis challenge cup afforded evidence of the unusual interest taken this year in the contest for this famous international tennis trophy. The preliminary competition is between the players representing the United States and Australia and will continue over Monday and Tuesday of next week. The winners will meet Great Britain, holder of the trophy, the matches to begin next Saturday. The American team consist of Boris C. Wright, Karl H. Behr, and W. J. Clothier, while the representatives of Australia are Dr. Sharp, Los Poidevin, Norman Brooks and A. F. Wilding. Much fear is expressed here that England will lose the trophy on account of the withdrawal of the Doherty brothers from competition, and many are of the opinion that it will be the Australians who will take the coveted cup across the seas.

Their examination was set for Monday morning. The Barry had when questioned by Judge Efield, practically admitted his guilt and implicated the Hessian boy but the latter denied any direct connection with the crime, though he admitted having bought the timepiece valuable chiefly as a heirloom, for a triding sum and affirmed that he had subsequently lost it. Barry insisted that he divided the money with Hessian.

HARNESS THIEF ABROAD IN CITY

Floyd Murdock Robbed of $40 Set Last Evening—John Kennedy Lost Two Thursday Night.

To give horses a chance to breathe during these warm nights it has been necessary to leave the barn doors open. Taking advantage of this, a thief has been doing a tidy bit of business in Janesville. Last night the barn on Vail street owned by Floyd D. Murdock was visited and a new set of hand-made black harness with gold rings in the saddle, valued at $40, was carried off. Mr. Murdock has offered a reward of $10 for the capture of the thief. Thursday night two sets of single harness, worth about $30, were stolen from a barn on John Kennedy's premises at the corner of Academy and Pleasant streets. No clue to the identity of the miscreant has been discovered.

ENGLISH POLITICAL AND SOCIAL LEADER IS SICK

Duke Of Devonshire Critically Ill--Condition Has Revived Many Interesting And Amusing Stories.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] London, July 12.—The critical illness of the Duke of Devonshire, than whom few occupy a higher place in the social and political life of England, has resulted in a flood of stories and anecdotes concerning him in the London press the past week.

One writer takes occasion to point out that in no country in the world except England could such a man as the Duke of Devonshire be produced or continue, year after year, without any effort on his part, to hold a commanding influence among his countrymen. He is the very embodiment of the aristocratic instinct which lies at the core of the national character. It gives a good idea of the solidity of the English society to notice that the Cavendish family have been in the first rank for more than 500 years, with very little change in their position, except that their wealth has steadily increased and their connections have steadily become more powerful.

The story that is told of his yawning in the middle of his speech in the House of Lords, exclaiming that he "really couldn't help it, it was so frightfully dull" is characteristic of the Duke. The only instance in his history when he is known to have spoken rapidly in public, to have exhibited the slightest animation, was on the occasion of a speech in Yorkshire many years ago. Usually punctual to the minute, he did not appear at the meeting for a considerable time after it had been called to order. When he entered upon his address his friends were at a loss to account for his uneasy manner and hurried utterance. They only understood when afterward he quite incidentally let it be known that on the way to the meeting he had been in a runaway, in which he and his brother (who afterward was slain by the Phoenix Park conspirators) had barely escaped with their lives.

The Duchess of Devonshire is quite as interesting a personage as is her distinguished husband. Her life-history has been a remarkable one, and she now holds what is perhaps the proudest social position in the world. In 1852 she married the seventh Duke of Manchester, then Lord Mandeville, and became a widow in 1890. She had five children. Two years after her widowhood, she was the wife of the Duke of Devonshire, and for the second time a duchess. She is known in society by the expressive nickname of "The Double Duchess."

PHILLY'S LARGEST CROWD SINCE CENTENNIAL EXPO

Meeting Of Elks Grand Lodge Next Week Will Attract Enormous Throng To Pennsylvania Metropolis.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Philadelphia, Pa., July 12.—Although the Grand Lodge of Elks does not meet here until Monday, a large advance guard of visitors has already put in an appearance. Reports received from all parts of the country indicate that the number of strangers to be in Philadelphia during the coming week will be the largest entertained here since the Centennial Exposition in 1876. A conservative estimate places the number of prospective visitors at 250,000.

All arrangements for the big gathering were practically completed today. For months past the local committees have been hard at work and as a result of their efforts the visitors will find that nothing has been left undone to contribute to their pleasure.

The business section of the city is already blossoming out in a sea of flags and bunting, the official purple of the order predominating. The centre of the decorative scheme is the court of honor, extending on Broad street from Spruce to Vine. Fifty thousand incandescent lights have been employed in this artistic creation. In addition to this, hundreds of electric decorations and arches of various descriptions have been placed in conspicuous positions throughout the central portion of the city.

The main army of the visitors is expected to reach the city tomorrow. All trains will be met by members of the reception committee, who will escort the visitors to their hotels. Ladies accompanying special delegates will be taken to their hotels in automobiles and tallyhops.

Features of entertainment will occupy the greater part of Monday. The programme will include a trip on the Delaware river, visiting Cramps and other shipyards, League Island navy yard, the forts and other places of interest. A stop will be made at Washington park, where luncheon will be served.

The formal opening of the grand lodge will take place Monday evening at the Grand Opera House, where the guests will be welcomed by the governor, mayor and other officials. At seven o'clock the grand lodge will open its doors and the evening session will begin its business sessions Tuesday morning at the Carick Theatre. The chief entertainment feature of the day will be a shore dinner at Washington park on Wednesday morning a trip will be made through Fairmount Park. At 11 o'clock a massed band parade of 3,000 musicians will take place, each lodge having a band of 30 or more pieces entered in this feature, and in the general parade receiving $100, besides having a chance to win the $300 special prize for the largest and best appearing band. In the afternoon there will be an excursion to Willow Grove and in the evening band concerts in Independence and City Hall squares.

The big parade will take place Thursday morning, and it is expected to be the largest and most magnificent spectacle of its kind ever seen in Philadelphia. Thousands of dollars in prizes will be awarded to those participating. The parade will last practically all day, and in the evening there will be special band concerts and illuminations. There are going to be some very elaborate costumes in the parade and some beautiful and bizarre floats. After it is over thousands of dollars' worth of prizes are to be distributed to the participants.

The Wyoming Lodge will have its famous cowboy band in line, and the Pueblo Elks are to bring one hundred little Colorado burros, whose riders will be dressed as cowboys. The float which will be entered by New Orleans is a promising prize winner. It will be filled with Panama canal diggers, who will distribute literature exploring the exposition which New Orleans proposes to hold in 1915.

The official trip to Valley Forge is scheduled for Friday, and on Saturday the official excursion to Atlantic City will take place.

These will be the main features of the week's entertainment program, but there will be any number of other attractions, including a flight of airships and a naval display on the Delaware. Scarcely less interesting than the entertainment in Philadelphia will be that provided for the Elks when they visit Atlantic City at the end of the week.

While the entertainment features will be the chief attraction for the bulk of the visitors, the official delegates to the grand lodge meeting will have enough business on hand to keep them busy a good part of the week. Proposed changes in the by-laws of the order are to be considered, officers elected and the place for next year's meeting selected. Seattle will put in a strong bid for the 1908 convention, while a large section of the South and Southwest is expected to "root" for Dallas.

New York Telegraph Operators Prepared for Instant Action.

New York, July 13.—Announcement was made by the Commercial Telegraphers' union officials Friday night that all the men here, 2,600 in number, in both the Western Union and Postal companies had been notified by National Secretary-Treasurer Wesley Russell to hold themselves in readiness to go out at any moment.

"It will not be necessary to call a meeting of the local to take a vote when we receive the order to strike," Secretary McInerney said. "This is one of the cases where such a formality can and will be overruled. The strike will be against both the Western Union and Postal companies, though the main grievance is against the Western Union. The situation is getting worse instead of better."

POSSIBILITY OF COAST DEFENSE

ROOSEVELT COULD DIRECT THE FIGHTING HIMSELF.

IT COULD BE ACCOMPLISHED

Very Easily Owing to Work That Is Being Accomplished by the Maneuvers.

The spectacle of President Roosevelt, surrounded by his military advisers, directing the defense of San Francisco against the attack of a hostile fleet, would be sufficiently novel to stir the civilized world, yet it is within the range of possibilities. Recently, about all that would be necessary would be a straight line of telegraphic communication between Washington and San Francisco, an allowance for the two or three seconds it takes for an electric flash to traverse the distance, and an equipment of charts showing the defenses. This is what the system of fire control and direction has made possible though hardly probable. All summer, up and down the coast, the national guard is co-operating with the coast artillery in joint maneuvers to learn the system on which one defense against attack by sea must rest and on the perfection of which so much depends. There is something mysterious, almost uncanny, in the idea that a man who does not even see a ship can direct the fire of unseen guns miles away, or the discharge of a mine and send a vessel to the bottom under a rain of heavy shells or with a hole torn in her sides. The matter is the application of mathematics to war. At a signal a twelve-inch gun or a battery of such guns, spring from behind an innocent looking embankment, belch forth a rain of shot, and sink again before the enemy has time to locate them, only to repeat the performance a few minutes later. This fire is delivered with marvelous accuracy and dispatch and at the command of a man miles away who does not need to even see the fleet, and in fact, who has no time to look at it if he were able to view it.

The dominant feature in the fire control system is rapidity of action. Guns which have been employed for years may be brought into an action lasting for only 75 or 20 minutes. A system, therefore, that will make it possible to fire 30 accurate shots from each of these guns in this time has the effect of doubling the number of guns in a system which makes it possible to fire only fifteen shots. The chain of tactical command and the various units in the system of defense are as follows: first, the battery, a group of guns or mortars of the same caliber and power, of which there are the following classes: a, 8-inch, 10-inch or 12-inch gun batteries of two or more guns—usually not more than 3 guns each; b, 12-inch mortar batteries of 8 mortars each; c, rapid fire batteries of from 2 to 6 guns each, caliber 6 inches or less. A battery is usually commanded by a captain. It is assumed that the guns of a single battery shall always have the same target. Second, The Fire Command, which is a group of batteries so located that their fire covers the same or contiguous water areas, and that they can be readily commanded in action by one man. Co-ordinate with the Fire Command is the Mine Command. This consists of submarine defenses, including mine fields and rapid fire guns which defend them.

Third, The Battle Command, consisting of two or more fire or mine commands and including all the armament, material and accessories that cover a water area within which a naval attack may be expected, and over which one man may exercise efficient control. In most harbors there is but one Battle Command. In the very large harbors there is more than one: for instance in New York harbor, Ports Totten, Schuyler and Slocom constitute one battle command of four Fire Commands and one Mine Command (fifteen batteries). Ports Wadsworth and Hamilton constitute a second Battle Command of five Fire Commands and one Mine Command (twenty-three batteries). Port Hancock constitutes a third Battle Command of three fire commands and one mine command (fourteen batteries). A battle command is usually commanded by a colonel, and is the highest unit in our system, over which is exercised Fire Control.

Fourth, The Artillery District, consisting of a subdivision of the coast line, including the personnel assigned thereto, organized for the purpose of artillery administration and defense. The command of an artillery district devolves upon the senior artillery officer thereof who is designated as the district commander. The system of "Fire Control and Direction" has for its purpose: 1, to enable the battery commander at all times to determine the range and other firing data of the target assigned to him; 2, to enable the fire commander to supervise and control the fire of the batteries of his command; 3, to enable the fire commander who assigns targets to the batteries, who sees that the targets are illuminated at night, who prescribes the volume and rate of fire, etc.; 4, to enable the Battle Commander to conduct an action and to exercise general supervision over and to coordinate the various subdivisions of his command; 5, to enable the District Commander to command the artillery defenses of his district and so direct all of the artillery elements of defense that they may work harmoniously together and mutually supplement and support each other.

There should be at least one 60-inch searchlight under the control of the battle commander who has an electric controller in his station. He searches for the enemy in his battle area by use of his searching lights with assistance as he desires from the illuminating lights of the fire commanders. The fire commander has a horizontal base line at each end of which is a depression position finder. He has a plotting board and an illuminating light the controller for which is in his station. He is in telephonic communication with the battle commander, each of his batteries and his illuminating light. In special cases the fire commander has the necessary range boards, deflection boards, etc., so that in case of a breakdown in the position finding service of one of the batteries he can furnish the necessary information to that battery directly from his own station. At night when the enemy has been found and targets assigned to fire commands, the fire commanders illuminate their own targets in order that their batteries may fire upon them. The battery commander of an 8-, 10- and 12-inch gun battery has a horizontal base line at each end of which is mounted a depression position finder. He has plotting and deflection boards, wind component indicator, etc. The supervision of the range finding service is under charge of the range officer of the battery commander leaving a station at his battery from which he can personally supervise its personnel and material. The range finding system is such that by taking observations every 20 seconds from the base ends, and by the use of range and deflection boards, etc., the track of the target is determined and corrections made mechanically for atmospheric conditions, variations in velocity, etc. By this the guns are furnished with firing data corrected every 20 seconds. As the guns are kept constantly trained on the target they can be fired any instant and the limitation to rate of fire is one salvo per minute. The firing data is therefore only sent once a minute. For rapid fire batteries, 6-inch caliber and less, no separate range finding system is as a rule provided. The batteries are furnished ranges by the fire commander. They are furnished meteorological data from a central station and information with respect to tide from a tide station. The fire commander has a horizontal base line at each end of which is a plotting board and searchlight. He is in telephonic communication with the battle commander, each of his rapid fire batteries, his searchlight, mining casemate, leading room, etc. The system is subject to many exceptions in which local conditions render modifications necessary, but the above will give a fair idea of the manner in which the defense of our seacoast is supervised and conducted.

THE OUTER'S BOOK

Makes an Interesting Plea for Archeology as a Vacation Pastime.

"Archeology As A Pastime" is the title of a very entertaining and copiously illustrated article from the pen of Halvor L. Skavlem, appearing in the July number of The Outer's Book, formerly The Northwestern Sportsman. The writer gently chides the "vacationer" who aspires to nothing more profitable than "just lazing around" when there is easy opportunity to add to the sum total of the world's knowledge, and then pilots his reader to the fascinating realm of the unexplored—the "dim and distant prehistoric." He shows that the study is adjustable to all classes of men—the profoundest reasoner, the boldest visionary, and the simplest observer; that the research work may begin almost at one's very door and may extend all the way from the bit of mounded earth or flint picked up in the ploughed field or along the river bank, and carefully recorded, to the measurement of those strangely shaped hillsides which seem to be, but are not, Nature's handiwork. After a brief but interesting journey to some of the great mounds of the Mississippi valley and to the ruined habitations of the cliff-dwellers in the southwest, Mr. Skavlem elaborates the theory that our northern tribes of Indians are direct descendants of the mound-builders; and the Pueblos, of the cliffmen. The methods of taking mound measurements are explained with the aid of a diagram of a remarkable squirrel-eagle which the writer had many a time traversed, "walking down hill on the long ridge without ever suspecting the graceful curves of a squirrel's tail."

CORRECT RATIO
FOR ASSESSMENT

STATE WOULD FIND TRUE STATUS OF TAXES.

EXPERTS AT COURT HOUSE

Will Be Here Two Months and Then Make Their Report to Tax Commissioner.

To determine the correct ratio between the present assessed valuation and the true value of the real estate of Rock county, statistical experts C. W. Blanchard and M. H. Pengra are now working over the records of the real estate sales of the county in Register of Deeds C. H. Weirick's office to get the required data which they will forward to the State Board of Assessment, or commonly known as the State Tax Commission. The experts have been going over the records in the register of deeds' office for the past week and will probably be at work in this county for the coming two months. These two experts have already scoured through the records of the county in order to acquire the necessary data upon which the board of assessment will make their comparison between Rock County and other counties in the state with reference to the comparative apportionment of state taxes among the 72 counties in Wisconsin. Experts in the employ of the state board of assessment have already gone over the records of the past six years in over 30 counties in the state and their findings have been compiled by the board.

In the collection of the statistics the record of real estate sales is taken by the experts and compiled in the offices of the assessment board at Madison. Among the counties which the fifteen experts, in the employ of the board, have collected data from are Milwaukee, Dane, Waushara, Racine, Manitowish, Fond du Lac, Marathon, Green, Ashland, Monroe, Vernon and Clark. From the findings so far in the hands of the state assessment board it is said the assessed valuation of real estate in some counties is as low as 40 per cent of the true value of the property while in other counties the percentage is as high as 90. To get at an equal ratio between the two valuations in the various counties of the state the tax commission is ascertaining the true value of property from the records of real estate sales which they will compare with the assessed valuations. In assessing the real estate of the county the past year the local assessors attempted to estimate the real estate values of the county at 80 per cent of the true value which, when compared with counties where the assessed value was 40 per cent, was unjust to Rock. To ally this evil the state assessment board is trying to ascertain the true value of real estate property in all counties so that an equal ratio may be made throughout the state.

The system now being employed in Rock county, and which will be practiced in all the counties in the state, to determine the true value of real estate is the outgrowth of the protest made by the railroads in the state that real estate is not paying its proper share of the taxes. Acting upon this impulse, the board began its system of collecting the desired data upon which they will be able to compute an equal ratio between the true value and the assessed value of all real estate in Wisconsin.

Cures Woman's Weaknesses.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

 'A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorant, and is a most powerful tonic for the entire reproductive system. He continues in Hemionus we have a medicinal which more fully answers the above purpose than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is so common that a case is presented which does not present some indication for this remedial agent.' Dr. Fyfe further says: 'The following are among the leading symptoms for which Unicorn root is indicated: Pain or cramping in the back with leucorrhoea; a weak condition of the reproductive organs; constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys; menorrhagia (flooding), due to a weak condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhoea (suppression) or absent monthly periods; general debility; indigestion; and a general condition of the digestive organs and system (thin blood) habit; dragging sensations in the extreme lower part of the abdomen.'
 If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no invalid woman can afford to neglect Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a most powerful tonic for the entire reproductive system, and is a most powerful tonic for the entire reproductive system, and is a most powerful tonic for the entire reproductive system.'

Of Golden Seal root, another prominent ingredient of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, Prof. Fyfe Ellingworth, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says: 'It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb. In all catarrhal conditions and general debility it is a most powerful tonic. Prof. John M. Sander, M. D., late of Cincinnati, says of Golden Seal root: 'In relation to its general effects on the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic useful in all debilitated conditions.'
 Prof. H. Bartlow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, says of Golden Seal: 'Valuable in uterine hemorrhage, menorrhagia (flooding) and congestive dysmenorrhea (painful menstruation).'
 Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents all the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which they are recommended.

TO FURTHER EXTEND
INTERURBAN LINES

By Building of Sycamore-Belvidere Branch Janesville Will Be Connected With More Illinois Cities.

Announcement is made that the De Kalb-Sycamore & Interurban company has financed their projected extension northward from Sycamore to Belvidere, and that building operations will begin when material which is not on the market but must be ordered long in advance, can be secured. The construction of these twenty-three miles will give Janesville good electric connections with Sycamore and Belvidere and numerous cities between those two places and surrounding Northern Illinois is now being crisscrossed with a network of interurban railways and it will not be long before Southern Wisconsin is similarly covered.

GIRLS HAD FISTIC
BOUT LAST EVENING

And After Friends Stopped Fight Half Hour Was Spent in Gathering Up "Top Rigging."

Two young ladies, each less than twenty years old, attempted to have a "knock-down and drag-out" on South Franklin street, near the Janesville Machine company's plant, last evening. Both girls and their relations at work and after hours had become so enraged that it was concluded that only force would break them off entirely or strengthen them. While on their way home shortly after six o'clock they met and for a few minutes thereafter fell into a fight. Both used only side swings and hammer blows and pompadours suffered worse than eyes, nose, jaw or body. Friends separated the entangled pair before any great damage was done and spent the next half hour in gathering up side combs, back combs, hair pins, bows and other top-rigging.

Members of Monroe Military Company Dissatisfied with Camp Because of Hard Work.

Company H of Monroe and Company I of Beloit passed through the city last evening on their way home after a week's encampment at Camp Douglas with the First regiment of the W. N. G. The members of both companies looked like a bunch of "hash browned" after their week's outing at the state reservation. The Beloit boys passed through the city without stopping while the Monroe company waited over in the city two hours, leaving on the Mineral Point train at 6:55. Members of the Monroe company expressed some dissatisfaction over the recent encampment because of the strenuous work exacted of them while in camp. The encampment has usually been a lark for some of the time and had hardly any time off duty. Several members of the company stated that they would not attend another encampment on a wager owing to the severe work. Lieut. Col. D. A. Stearns, who had charge of the regiment after Col. Joachim left for the east the middle of the week, accompanied the Monroe company on the train.

INTERURBAN LEAGUE HAS GOTTEN UNDER HEADWAY

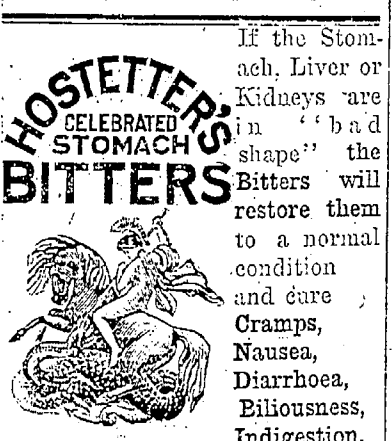

Janesville and Beloit Will Play First Game of Baseball at Yost's Park on July 21.

At a meeting of representatives of the Interurban Baseball league, held in Beloit yesterday and attended by Charles B. Conrad and Thomas Abbott of this city, it was decided to open the season on Sunday, July 21, one week from tomorrow, at Yost's park with a game between Beloit and Janesville. The league is to be composed of the clubs named and nine from Rockford and Belvidere, Pitcher Anderson of Whitewater have been signed as a battery for Janesville. Both men have been playing in fast company and are expected to make the balance of the players look to their laurels. All the games hereabouts will be played at Yost's Park.

Hon. Thomas Collier Platt, the senior senator from New York state, was born at Owego, N. Y., on July 15th, 1823. He is a member of the Yale class of 1851 but began life in a store at Owego. He soon made his mark as a successful business man and was made president of the Tiooga (N. Y.) National bank. Senator Platt married Miss Helen Barstow, who died in 1901. He made a fortune in handling big lumber interests in Michigan and went to congress from 1871 until 1877. He was made a member of the upper house in 1881 and again in 1897. He is president of the United States Express company. His home is in Owego but he spends most of his time in New York city with his intimate friends.

DANGEROUS THINGS TO HAVE.

Married Man Carried Too Much Circumstantial Evidence.

It probably never enters the minds of most people how perfectly innocent a man may be and yet lay himself open to suspicion through no fault of his own. J. C. Linton, a Chicago guest at the St. Denis hotel, gives a good instance of this, says the New York Press. "If I happened to be found dead in my room just now," said he, "in one of my pockets would be discovered the photograph of a very pretty actress and in my valise a half dozen pairs of women's silk stockings, a woman's solid gold chain, wrist bag and a large pearl hatpin. All these things—I don't include the photograph—are for my wife, but she doesn't know it. Now, if I were to die here she would, womanlike, come to the conclusion, on finding these feminine things in my bag, that I the scoundrel, had played her false. The result would be she would simply waste the rest of her days in trying to unearth the supposed wife No. 2. Anyhow, I guess I'll tear the photograph up; it's a particularly dangerous thing for a married man to have in his possession."

NEW SCIENTIFIC PROCESS.

A Preparation Discovered That Will Destroy the Dandruff Germ. For some time it has been known that dandruff is caused by a germ that digs up the scalp into little white flakes, and by sapping the vitality of the hair at the root, causes falling hair, and, of course, finally baldness. For years there have been all kinds of hair stimulants and scalp tonics on the market, but there has been no permanent cure for dandruff until the discovery of a preparation called Newbro's Herpicide, which destroys the dandruff germ. Destroy the cause, the effect will cease to exist. Kill the dandruff germ and you'll have no dandruff, no itching scalp, no falling hair. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

"There are hermit souls that live withdrawn.

In the place of their self-content;

There are souls, like stars, that live apart.

In a fellowless firmament;

There are pioneer souls that blaze their path.

Where highway never ran—

But, let me live by the side of the road,

And be a friend to man.

Let me live in a house by the side of the road,

Where the race of men go by—

The men who are good, and the men who are bad,

As good and as bad as I.

I would not sit in the scorners' seat,

Nor hurl the cynic's ban;

Let me live in a house by the side of the road,

And be a friend to man.

I see from my house by the side of the road,

By the side of the highway of life,

The men who press with the ardor of hope,

The men who are faint with strife,

But I turn not away from their smiles or their tears—

Both parts of an infinite plan;

Let me live in my house by the side of the road,

This choice sentiment is from the pen of Sam Walter Foss, in "The Christian Republic." It is a homely sentiment and yet so full of helpful suggestions, that it is worth considering.

The dusty highway of life is crowded with pedestrians in all sorts of conditions, many of them in need of a word of encouragement and a helping hand.

Half a century ago, when rapid transit was in its infancy, the old-fashioned stage coach was the only medium for overland travel, and the stage house, by the side of the road, with its spacious kitchen and living room, was a most welcome resort to weary travelers.

There was an air of good cheer and an atmosphere of hospitality which welcomed every guest. These wayside inns are largely a matter of history. They belonged to an era of moderation when people took time to live.

J. B. Doe, for many years cashier of the First National bank, in speaking of these early days, once said: "I came west from Buffalo to Janesville by stage coach, and I sometimes think that if the country was back in the stage-coach period, that we would be better off. Our wants were simple; we were never in a hurry, and nervous prostration was an undiscovered disease."

Mr. Doe dropped out of the race while the nation was getting up steam and before the speed limit was developed, but he lived by the way to ripe old age, and people who enjoyed his friendship and confidence, cherish the memory of a man who was a blessing to his day and generation.

Steam and electricity have annihilated time and space and revolutionized travel beyond recognition. The man who makes a trip across the continent demands a limited train and a dining-car service en route.

He can't afford to waste twenty minutes, three times a day, at a railway eating station.

The 15-hour trains running between Chicago and New York are considered slow by the men who patronize them. One of these passengers, who makes the round trip three times a week, operating on the Chicago Board of Trade one day, and New York the next, recently said, the company ought to shorten the time at least an hour.

These limited trains are demanded by the pace set by a procession which regards time spent in travel as wasted. The railway companies would be glad to abandon them, and the men who run them would rejoice to be relieved of the responsibility.

One of the oldest engineers in the employ of the Chicago & North-Western road said, "I have run on every division and handled many fast trains, but the 'Duluth Flyer' is too many for me. Any man who runs it for a year will be gray-haired."

This is the fast train that passes through Janesville, at midnight, and is only one of many trains of this class that are running in all directions in all parts of the country.

This breakneck speed enters into every department of business and commercial life. It is so contagious that the social structure is also contaminated with it, and between the rush of competition and the whirl of society many business-men find themselves in a maelstrom from which there is no escape but premature old age and decay.

The man at 50 is older than his father at 30. He has seen more of life, to be sure, but he has paid the price, and has always been a stranger to the wayside inn and resting-place by the roadside.

It is the pace that kills and demoralizes, and the sad feature of it is, that it seldom slackens until brought face to face with the trench that crosses every pathway and records the end of the journey.

A man who recently died as the result of nervous strain and close application, said two weeks before the event, "Now I am ready to live and enjoy life, no business to worry about, a good income, and everything just as I wanted it." But he kept up the pace too long.

The human body, the shell which shelters the brain, the mind and the soul, is called a tenement. In some respects these houses are very much alike. A thousand men on dress parade resemble each other so much that you look twice to pick out your friend.

"But 'the tailor never makes the man,' and so these tenements contain all kinds of people. Some of them are so cold and reserved that you may not approach within speaking distance. Others are so warped with selfishness, that you have no desire to know them, while others are the victims of passions and habits which make them repulsive.

Here and there is noticed a pleasant face and a cheerful word of greeting which causes the heart to pulse with new life. These are the houses by the wayside, always open and ready to extend a welcome to the wayfarer.

They are the class of tenements which make life endurable to the throng. They may belong to the church, or they may belong to the great outside world, where the church has many unrecognized recruits; it matters not; they are members of God's great family, working out in quiet ways a part of His great plan and scattering sunshine by the way.

A family, returning from a long ride in the country, was caught in a storm at dark, ten miles from the city. They entered a farm gate which stood open at the roadside, and the farmer rushed out to open the barn where the machine was safely housed.

The family was taken to the house, the children stowed away for a nap, while the good housewife prepared supper. It was a hospitable home by the side of the road, occupied by people who possessed much in the coin of the choicest realm of all the kingdom.

There are many such homes and such hearts, scattered here and there and they are pleasant reminders of the fact that in this busy age of rush and turmoil the spirit of the old days still lives.

It is natural and easy to love a friend but more difficult to be a friend to humanity. It requires a large heart and a keen sense of appreciation to take the stranger in, but when the brotherhood of the race is fully recognized the task will be less difficult, and there will be more open tentements along the highways and byways of life.

STEALING RIDES IS AN EPIDEMIC HERE

Small Boys of Janesville Catch Freight Trains to Other Towns When Thought to be at Play.

Boys of this city, ranging in age from 10 to 20 years, are becoming a nuisance to trainmen by catching onto freight trains running out of this city to Milton and Beloit. Catching a ride on a train is a practice most boys have been guilty of some time during their lives but the epidemic among the youngsters of this city has become so prevalent that some means should soon be taken to stop the practice. Last night about 25 lads caught the St. Paul freight up to Milton and stole a return ride home. In the group were lads so small they should not be allowed to leave home after dark. Parents of these youngsters, who may think their sons are enjoying themselves in innocent play at some neighbor's house, are doubtless unaware that their children are stealing a ride on some freight train to a nearby town with a group of playmates. Trainmen are unable to keep the lads off the trains and so far the officers have not been able to put a stop to the mischief. The source of the trouble is said to be in the homes of the boys where the parents fail to keep a proper vigil over their progeny who slip away from home on some pretext or other and steal a ride on a freight train to some town close by.

PURE FOOD LAW HAS MADE ITSELF FELT

Many Brands of Prepared Foods Have Been Discontinued—Formulas Have Scared Purchasers.

As a result of the new federal pure food law some brands of prepared food are no longer manufactured; others are less popular and new substitutes have appeared in the market. The printing of the formulas on each package, bottle or tin has revealed the contents and frightened many consumers. Cereals have been used as an adulterant in ported meats and pure ported meats bring double the price that those supposed to be pure formerly brought. The demand for jellies, jams, catsup, and similar products has dropped off since people have learned their constituents. In other products the knowledge of adulterants, either harmful or harmless, has affected the market.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
VERSION OF THE TERM

MALICIOUS ANIMAL MAGNETISM.

(By Alfred Farlow.)
In view of misapprehensions which recently appeared in the public press, it seems proper that we should devote some space to the consideration of the term "malicious animal magnetism," as used in Christian Science parlance.

In writing on this subject, we are well aware that we have undertaken a subject with which the general public is not very familiar, although it is not by any means new. The lesson on animal magnetism is an advanced one in the Christian Science course, and ordinarily would leave it for the future so far as concerns the public press, but since it has already been introduced and in large measure misstated, we feel compelled to discuss it in the interest of fair representation.

The word magnetism was first applied to a peculiar attraction of iron ore. It was called magnetism because it was discovered in the city of Magnesia. Later the term "animal" was joined to it and it was thus used in connection with electrical experiments with an animal.

The meaning of the term continued to broaden until it became comprehensive enough to include the peculiar influence which one person was able to exert over another by physical contact.

In later years the schools of psychology enlarged the definition still more and now, through Mrs. Eddy's teaching, the term "animal magnetism" has become broad enough to include any and all action of the human mind and is similar, if not identical, in meaning with the term mesmerism or the more modern term hypnotism. From this description it may be noted that from the very introduction of the term to the present time, the word has been applied to that particular power, influence or force, which is possessed by the creature in contradistinction to the Creator.

But One Power or Force.

Christian Science teaches that there is in reality but one power or force, that is, God, Spirit, Mind, Truth, Love, and that, therefore, the Christian warfare is the struggle of mankind to become subject to "the Mind which was in Christ"—to become submissive to the divine Mind and thus silence human will which the Scriptures denigrate as the "fleshly mind."

St. Paul described this warfare in the following words: "For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh, and these are contrary the one to the other."

Science always settles the battle on the side of Spirit, because "Spirit is the real and eternal," and "matter (flesh) is the unreal and temporal."

Since Science has introduced the proposition that God is the only real Mind, the carnal mind in all its varied manifestations is naturally arrayed against it.

Therefore, every willful phase of this human opposition which is created by the introduction of science is malicious. Hence the use of the term, "malicious animal magnetism."

It is called magnetism because it refers to a supposed power independent of God malicious, in keeping with the scriptural declaration, "Because the carnal mind is enmity against God."

Antipode of Divine Science.

Mrs. Eddy refers to it as the human antipode of divine Science. It is a term which is broad enough to include all that is opposed to God. It includes every phase of evil, every phase of the human antagonism to Truth.

In combating evil Science does not regard it as person, but as a supposititious force which dominates false sense and which, in view of its false pretence of intelligence, is denominated "mortal mind."

St. Paul called it "carnal mind," evidently because all its promptings or inducements are based upon fleshly desires. Mrs. Eddy's definition of malicious animal magnetism is identical with our Lord's description of Satan.

"He was a murderer from the beginning and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie he speaketh of his own, for he is a liar and the father of it."

The Master referred to Satan as "he," but declared that he was never in the truth and there is no truth in him; but he is altogether a liar. It is neither person nor intelligence that lies, but a mere mystification or want of intelligence which declares a false sense of things.

The scripture refers to Satan as the power of darkness and as a deceiver. Darkness is not a real power; it is simply obscurity, and it disappears with the revelation of truth.

Science discredits the fabled devil, who is supposed to be endowed with intelligence, horns and hoofs, and shows that it is not a thing to be afraid of, but a pretence to be awake to.

The subtle arguments of malicious animal magnetism can have no effect upon those who are aware of its presence and who understand that God is the only real Mind or power.

Malicious animal magnetism is an evil mental influence in belief, the opposite of Science—that which the evil minded through mental malpractice seek to use in opposition to the good influence of the divine Mind.

Known to Psychologists.

It is known to all students of psychology, and we think we may safely say, to all reasonably well informed persons, that one may be mentally dominated by another; if he is not awake to this evil and prepared to resist its deception.

There are, and have been for many years, schools which advertise their ability to teach a method of subjugating the will of another for the purpose of ruling him, and it is claimed that through evil mental suggestion fear and even disease and death may be produced.

It is well known that crimes of all sorts have been committed under hypnotic influence. In 1895 the court recognized the criminality of hypnotism or malicious animal magnetism, when a man by the name of Harry Hayward at Minneapolis, Minn., was hanged for having induced a Swede by the name of Bilka to commit murder under his mesmerizing influence.

We remember having read some years ago of a hypnotist who on several occasions went into a little confectionary store, bought candy, threw down a copper coin and obtained change for a five-dollar gold piece.

He was finally detected by the police, who after considerable trouble made the clerk aware that the man had actually collected change for five dollars.

Another hypnotist is said to have gone to the box office in a theatre, where he threw down a piece of paper, procured a ticket and change for a bill of considerable size.

A detective who had been watching the man arrested him on the spot and finally made the clerk understand that he had given the hypnotist change for a bit of paper.

Lays Bare Diabolism.

Christian Science throws light upon this hidden practice, because through its understanding of right mental influence, it lays bare the diabolism of the evil mental influence.

While many are sceptical in regard to the possibility of mental malpractice, its evil workings and evil effects are so well known to the careful investigator that they cannot be brushed aside.

The time has arrived when Christian Science is needed as a protection against the mental bandit for, as a matter of fact, the understanding of God as the one Infinite Power is the only sure means of defence against the evil called malicious animal magnetism.

Jesus evidently had this in mind when he prayed "Not as I will, but as thou wilt." This was on the occasion when he was struggling to defend himself against the almost overwhelming hatred of the rabble which was incensed against him at that time.

There is no point of similarity between the belief of Christian Science concerning animal magnetism and what has been termed witchcraft.

Witches, as we understand, were supposed to be controlled by evil spirits or demons which rendered them dangerous to the community in which they lived. Witchcraft was based wholly upon superstition.

In Christian Science animal magnetism is not believed to be a power, is not thought to be the expression of intelligence but of false belief.

It is not to be combated by smiling its victim but by understanding the truth, by relying upon the one power which neutralizes and destroys the false belief.

In the light of Christian Science we recognize that the effects of the Black Curse and all other means of frightening folks are the outgrowth of delusion, of suggestion or auto-suggestion which become powerless in the presence of Christian Science, the apprehension of the truth of being.

The manifestations of human will are silenced by an understanding of the omnipotence and omnipresence of the divine Mind.

A NEW SCHOOL DESK

Provides Support for the Child's Back, Where It Is Most Needed.

In the belief that proper seating facilities play an important part in the welfare of school children, George W. Ehler, supervisor of physical training, and Director of Schools, Charles Orr worked until they have perfected what they believe is the best seat and desk in the country, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The seat is constructed according to Ehler's own plans and is based upon an exhaustive set of measurements made by him last year in the schools. It provides support for the child's back, where it is most needed, at the base of the spinal column and the small of the back. Another strong point is that the seat proper is pitched backward only slightly, keeping the body at a restful angle. Both seat and desk are adjustable. The new desks are being installed in all the new buildings and grow in favor wherever put.

Until the perfection of Ehler's improved seat there were two forms of desk used in the schools. The first was the old-fashioned desk, not adjustable at all, and made in unvarying sizes for the different grades. It presupposed that all children in the same grade would be of a size.

Then came the so-called "liver-pan" desk. The back of the seat in this style of desk consisted of a single, concave rest, to be placed at that point where the child's back most needed support. This was faulty in two respects. In the first place it was narrow and held the child's body in a vise-like grip, and in the second it gave support at only one point, whereas the spine requires support at several points.

LOOKED SUSPICIOUS TO HIM.

Youngster's Reasoning Natural Under the Circumstances.

Five-year-old Lewis had on several occasions successfully evaded his nurse, and paid surreptitious and delightful visits to the workmen on an apartment house in process of building at the corner of his block. As the result of his observations there he unconsciously and without prejudice emitted a choice and varied assortment of profanity at the luncheon table. His shocked mother tried to impress upon him that never, never again must he repeat such words. But Lewis either lacked discrimination or his parent's warning had not been sufficiently impressive, for a few days afterward he vented a notable addition to his vocabulary of expletives. His mother this time waited not for speech, but promptly and firmly seized the young man and washed his mouth out with soap and water, which she had already demonstrated as an effective spiritual cleanser. A few days afterward Lewis was watching the nurse give his six-week-old sister her bath, and when nurse carefully washed out the little mouth Lewis asked interestedly: "Nurse, has baby been saying naughty words?"

THAT RARE ANIMAL, MAN.

Seldom Caught Before 8 O'Clock in London, Never in Day Time.

Time was when London was one of the capitals where man could be discerned with the naked eye in the day time; but now he is almost invisible except at certain favored spots in the city and a few eclectic clubs at Pall Mall.

There was a period considerably later than the stone age, when this interesting but rare creature was to be observed, feeding quite tamely, at literary and political breakfasts. Later on, he was still to be enticed by fair hands to lunch parties, and was sometimes found hovering near the tea-table of some beautiful and expert tamer between five and seven.

But with the new century this rare creature's habits have altered most completely, for he is seldom to be caught before eight p. m. on week days, and has a habit, moreover, of retiring to remote haunts and obscure thickets from Friday night till Monday afternoon.

It has been observed that the younger and best bred specimens exhibit a curious dislike both to the immature and elderly females of their kind, but have been known to show marked animation when enticed by a young and comely matron, and will, on these occasions, approach without fear, and even feed out of her hand.—London Sketch.

Story of Irving.

Irving memories continue to spring up. Lionel Barrymore played on the stage with Sir Henry the night of his death and he told of the last moments of England's greatest actor as follows:

"I noticed," said the actor, "that the little child, who played Geoffrey that night had too much red on his cheeks, and I said to myself that as soon as the curtain fell on the act I would speak to the child about it. I was crossing the stage to overtake the little one and make the correction in his makeup when I heard Irving, who was walking in before me, say, 'Leo, you've got too much red on your face.' That was 45 minutes before he breathed his last, and as I afterward learned from the doctors, he was literally dying all through the performance."

and its civilization rests on the strong shoulders of the three great beer brewing nations. Herein is overwhelming evidence that the continual use of rich barley brews like developes muscle, might and mind. Dr. Chas. S. Grady, Grantwood, N. J., says: "I believe the moderate use of good malt beer, the product of barley vegetable or cereal ingredient, is beneficial to adult persons and is certainly a food."

The popularity of "Peerless" is due to its commanding superiority. It has a splendid fragrance and most delightful flavor, because it is brewed—and has been brewed for half a century—by the celebrated Gund Natural Process—a peculiar process that retains in a most wonderful degree the aroma and strength of the grain and the hop.

Won gold medal at St. Louis, 1904—and diploma at Paris, 1900. Contains but 3 1/4% of alcohol—enough to promote digestion. Is a fine family beer. Try a case delivered at your home. Telephone, write or call for a trial order.

Peerless is sold at all restaurants, buffets, cafes, hotels and places of public resort.

FEED T. HOPKINS, Prop., 37 Great Jones Street, New York

There are, and have been for many years, schools which advertise their ability to teach a method of subjugating the will of another for the purpose of ruling him, and it is claimed that through evil mental suggestion fear and even disease and death may be produced.

It is well known that crimes of all sorts have been committed under hypnotic influence. In 1895 the court recognized the criminality of hypnotism or malicious animal magnetism, when a man by the name of Harry Hayward at Minneapolis, Minn., was hanged for having induced a Swede by the name of Bilka to commit murder under his mesmerizing influence.

We remember having read some years ago of a hypnotist who on several occasions went into a little con-

GLIMPSES OF SARATOGA LIFE AND FASHIONS

The above design is by the McCall Co. of New York, fashion publishers and manufacturers of McCall patterns.

The fashionable contingent has arrived at Saratoga, and groups of gayly-dressed people are thronging the large hotels, the principal streets and the springs, which are a necessity to some, and an amusement to others. Morning dresses include lines of all descriptions, linen tailored waists, Marie Antoinette waists, or simple lingerie waists worn with black skirts. Linen jumper dresses in pink, blue or natural color, often made in the plainest manner, with small buttons in clusters and braid button holes, are cool looking, sensible and pretty. A black ribbon bow at the front, or a lace revers gives contrast without excess of ornamentation.

Prince Chap Suits
This style is also a favorite, with a heavy lace band at the fronts, sleeves and collar. A blue or pink vest with handsome buttons is often observed, and a colored collar and cuffs are again used on perfectly plain white linen suits. Of course the Eton trimmed with lace, which is no novelty, has not been abandoned and more lace and that of a richer texture seems to be the only change. Simple lingerie frocks are also very attractive for morning, particularly with a lingerie hat and parasol. Besides the lingerie hats are soft, grey felt, stitched linen hats, and Panama hats, slightly turned up at one side, and trimmed by a simple scarf with fringed ends.

Dotted Foulards
Jumper foulard dresses are a special feature here, and no costume could be worn here by two friends, one dress in blue coin and ring spots, and the other in brown dots of varied sizes, both in jumper style. With any simple morning dress, striped canvas shoes, with a colored ribbon bow on the instep, is considered smart, or else tan shoes, which are this season in especial prominence. White canvas is also as much in favor as ever.

Afternoon Toilettes
Some of the most charming of these are of plain blue or pink Japanese silk. One of the former color worn by a blonde from Philadelphia, elicited a second look wherever she happened to be. The shade of blue was exquisite, and made Princess shape, the beautiful, lithe figure of the wearer showed to special advantage. The front of the skirt was elaborately trimmed with Point de Paris lace, with a double edge, woven in such a way that the effect was that of white lace flowers. A flounce at the extreme edge of the skirt was finished by a ruffle of German Val lace. Narrow blue silk fold and white lace composed the robe and sleeves.

A Handsome Evening Gown
is of white chiffon voile, Princess style, trimmed with narrow puffings of champagne-colored satin. Another is of white net embroidered in sprays, combining three shades of purple, and made up over purple silk, the bottom of the skirt heavily braided (wide) with delicate embroidery between each row of braid. The waist, a surplice front, was composed of embroidery, braiding and lace. Lingerie dresses with a colored lining are in great favor for afternoon or evening, but after all they require a slender figure and a youthful face, and perhaps the time has passed by for either of these attractions.

Gloves

Persons of large means wear beautiful gloves, either of embroidered silk in pink, blue or white, or the long black lace mitt, or better yet, the real lace gloves (elbow length) which are in white, black or cream, sometimes costing $40 a pair. Hosiery also is embroidered and white, with large designs in silk is favored by smart dressers. Open-work remains standard, and black, embroidered with small colored figures, correspond well with colored leather, either plain or in the smart styles. Satin slippers embroidered in steel gilt or silk are noticeably handsome at all evening entertainments.

Parasols

There is always a "fad" in parasols, and this year it is the green parasol, which is certainly a sensible "fad." This is of course a utility parasol, although one has appeared with a ruffle of white lace around the edge, and pink rosebuds are embroidered in the scallops. The white embroidered linen still maintains the first position, and triangular shapes of white net in each gore, with hand-embroidery on the net, is especially handsome. Handkerchief linen parasols, embroidered in sprays, are suitable for any afternoon toilette, no matter how handsome.

Lingerie Hats

have departed from the sweet simplicity which marked their advent, and are now so elaborate as to neutralize all charm. A hat worn by one of the "smart set," was of embroidered batiste (quite correct so far) with four clusters of roses, (three each) the intervals filled up with bunches of green geranium leaves. Another, with lace ruffle at the edge, has almost the entire crown and brim covered by wisteria, with blue velvet ribbon knotted at the center of the crown.

TO ADJUST RATE OF INTERSTATE TRAVEL

If Davidson Does Not Sign the Two-cent Fare Bill Railroads Will Fix Present Rate Schedule.

An inter-state rate for railroad travel will be granted in Wisconsin on July 19 and 20, providing that the bill passed yesterday by the state legislature is vetoed by the governor. If the governor signs the bill, all the work that the tariff departments of the railroads have been put to in figuring out the rates for inter-state travel since the reduced legal rates went into effect will have been in vain and the work will have to be all gone over again, with the Wisconsin rate figured at 2 cents a mile instead of 2½ cents.

There has been no official statement of the establishment of the new inter-state tariffs but it was learned today that they would be established July 19 or 20. They are almost completed now and will be issued at once. This will be ineffective, however, if the 2-cent rate bill in Wisconsin is signed by the governor.

Under the present tariffs, tickets will be sold at the Janesville office at 2 cents a mile to Illinois points, 2 cents a mile to all Iowa points and 2½ cents a mile to the state line and 2 cents a mile for the balance of the journey to all Minnesota points as well as all other states where there is a rate of 2 cents a mile continuously.

Railway men in Chicago are firm in the opinion that Gov. Davidson will not sign the 2-cent fare bill. They insist that the railway commission gave the question sane and careful attention and decided that such a rate was unfair. Hence, they argue, that the governor will veto the measure for just the same reasons as did Gov. Hughes in New York—that the legislature had not studied the problem sufficiently to arrive at a logical conclusion in the matter.

Meet in Chicago Sunday: Engineers and firemen of the Wisconsin division of the North-Western will attend a meeting to be held in the trainmaster's office on Fortieth street in Chicago Sunday morning at 10 o'clock for the purpose of talking over company business. SPECIAL NOTICE TO THE LADIES OF JANESVILLE.

A great demonstration of E. Burnham's Toilet Requisites is to take place in this city at E. B. Heimstreet's from July 15th to 20th, which is being given for the purpose of teaching the ladies of this city how to use E. Burnham's celebrated toilet requisites in the privacy of their own homes with equally as good success as if they had visited his celebrated beautifying parlors at 70-72 State street, Chicago, where he employs upwards of two hundred people for demonstrations alone.

E. Burnham is the largest toilet and hair goods manufacturer in the world, doing upwards of a million and a half dollars worth of business per annum, and employs in his wholesale and retail over four hundred people.

His demonstrators create a sensation among the ladies wherever they demonstrate and prove to the ladies that E. Burnham's Toilet Requisites will do all that is claimed for them. They guarantee to take any lady, regardless of her complexion, and improve her looks from 25 to 100 per cent. If you are at all skeptical on this point it is to your interest to call at E. B. Heimstreet's store and see this demonstrator for yourself, who is direct from Chicago.

She is not like the ordinary demonstrators who have been visiting our city, who merely tell us what they can do, but will take any lady with freckles, moth patches, discolored skin, pimples or blackheads, and remove them, and will clear her face, putting it into a youthful, healthy condition.

This demonstration is given privately so the ladies need have no fear of having made public anything that is done for them.

They also have a booklet which is fully illustrated, "How to Be Beautiful," which is the key to the use of these celebrated toilet articles. These booklets will be given out as well as samples, free, during her stay in this city. You are all invited to call.

The Clumsy Eye.

The human eye is said to be a rather ill-contrived piece of mechanism. A celebrated German physicist is reported to have remarked that if an artisan were to make for him a piece of apparatus so poorly adapted to its purpose he would not accept it.

Come With Us To Alberta.

Stock raising is the most profitable and satisfactory branch of farming. The IDEAL grazing and stock region in Southern Alberta, Canada. Climate and weather conditions are so favorable that stock is kept on the range all winter and no expensive stables are needed—shed feeding is all that is necessary.

The snowfall is much lighter than in Wisconsin, and the grasses furnish feed for the stock all winter. Alfalfa, the best all-round forage plant, grows thickly and luxuriantly year in and year out. Once rooted, it lasts a lifetime, and you may harvest two or three crops a year. Good alfalfa land, under irrigation, you can buy for $18.00 to $25.00 per acre.

But stock raising is far from being the only profitable purpose to which this fertile land may be put. The most desirable conditions are to be found in Southern Alberta for farming of all

"I have been vitally interested in the crops of the Northwest States for the past 15 years and never in all of my experience have I seen such crops anywhere in any country as we have here in Alberta at the present time. Conditions could not possibly have been better had they been made to order. The winter wheat crop is especially fine and promising. This does not apply to any one district in Alberta but to the entire area."
